New Colorado Music Hall of Fame (CMHOF) Features "Custom Exhibits"

The new home for the CMHOF is the Trading Post building located in Red Rocks Park & Amphitheater. The John Denver "Spirit" sculpture can be seen in its new location just below the amphitheater.

Visit the CMHOF and relive or learn the history of Colorado's very successful music scene.

Custom designed exhibits are ideal for both trade shows and permanent exhibits in museums, visitor centers and corporate facilities.

The primary difference is that for trade shows the exhibit needs to be more modular in concept to allow for easy set-up and dismantle.

This interactive CMHOF display allows visitors to control the video display, providing information about various inductees. The cabinet is constructed with aluminum extrusions and integrated with a truss structure to support the flat screen monitor.

The 18ft wide custom exhibit features artifacts from the life of John Denver. The exhibit is constructed from aluminum extrusions with LED lighting. The Reader Boards located at the bottom are custom constructed cabinets.

Custom graphics and a display case can showcase your product and grab your audience's attention. The CMHOF Exhibit features 3-Dimensional photos of John Denver & Red Rocks Amphitheatre, along with a Bronze Bust created by artist Dawn Record.

The 2014 Class of Inductees exhibit features direct printed graphics with the artifacts off-set. The display cases on top are constructed with aluminum extrusion. All lights are low voltage LED lights.

The 2013 Class of Inductees exhibit features direct printed graphics with the artifacts off-set. A custom designed showcase presents a dress worn by Judy Collins.

This exhibit featuring inductees of the class of 2012 was constructed with aluminum extrusion with LED lighting and custom reader boards.
